PERT PARAGRAPHS.

LIVING on luxuries is about the best most people can do considering the high prices of necessities.

It things keep on going up life itself will become too great a luxury for us to enjoy.

The man who can't come back is quite apt to be the one that didn't go away.

Lots of girls know the right man, but the trouble seems to be that they can't keep him right.

It keeps most women busy as they wait to be seeing that their husbands don't break training.

It really is scandalous the way one's creditors make one's life miserable by being in evidence upon every occasion.

Even a grouch can't help grinning when he sees a cute baby.

If by any chance what we want to do comes close to coinciding with what we should do some misfortune makes ends refuse to connect.

Eating one's words is seldom conducive to good digestion.

The charity that you proffer is generally quite as warm as the charity that you get.

The Great Riddle.
Who can guess the meaning
Of a woman's smile,
Though it may securely
Hid him for awhile,
Is it on him only
That her favors fall,
Or is it a trifle
She bestows on all?

Makes his heart go throbbing
In a pleasant
Thumping and a jumping
When she looks like that,
But a doubt comes over him
As she glides along
That there may be others
Mingled with the throng.

So she keeps him guessing,
Hot and cold by turns,
Hoping, fearing, doubting,
Waiting for return.
Now he hops transported
To the heights of bliss,
Later in a dawning
Howdy doing time.

Who can guess the answer,
Hedding for fear,
To the great conundrum
Right before him there?
Are his hopes well founded?
Thus he half is slow?
Even though he asks her,
Still he may not know.

$100,000 Reward in Sugar Case Results in "Almost Incredible" Revelations of Smuggling—Port Collector Confers with Wickersham.

New York, Oct. 22.—Prosecution of some of the largest importing firms in New York on charges of defrauding the government by means of undervaluation, like those for which the sugar trust was convicted, and Duveen Bros., art importers, are now under indictment, appear to be imminent, according to Collector William Loeb, Jr.

Loeb and Wickersham Confer.
Mr. Loeb returned from a conference in Washington with Secretary of the Treasury Franklin MacVeagh and Attorney General George Wickersham.

The only hope of the importers, whose identity is closely guarded in their offering payment of duties wrongfully withheld, together with the monetary penalties prescribed by law, Stimulated by the reward of $100,000 paid by the United States to Richard Purr for his services in unearthing the sugar trust, disclosures involving firms of nation-wide repute have been made right and left during the last few days, according to Collector Loeb.

Frauds Are Immense.
"Can you give any inkling of the amount out of which the government has been defrauded?" Collector Loeb was asked.

"No," he replied, "But it is a large sum."

So grave was the situation disclosed by information that Collector Loeb decided to make the trip to Washington.

"I cannot give you the names of the firms and individuals involved, but the revelations disclose corruption and fraud among importers almost incredible of belief," said Mr. Loeb.

"The penalties, even in case of immunity, will be of sufficient magnitude to deter other offenders."

MORGAN GIVES $100,000 FOR CHURCH CAMPAIGN

Financier Starts Fund for World Conference on Unity as Climax to Episcopal Convention.

Cincinnati, Oct. 22.—A gift of $100,000 to the campaign fund for the world's conference on church unity by J. P. Morgan served as a fitting ending to the greatest convention in the history of the Protestant Episcopal church.

Mr. Morgan was named as treasurer of the movement to raise funds required to bring about what is hoped to be the greatest conference of Christian churches throughout the universe ever held. Right Rev. Charles P. Anderson, bishop of Chicago, was chosen as president.

Shortly before leaving for the east, after the convention adjourned, Mr. Morgan made the official announcement that he had started the fund with a gift of a tenth of a million dollars.

A VALID OBJECTION.

Young Sheridan's Ready Wit Saved Him a Blotching.

Richard Hinesley Sheridan early earned a genius for getting something for nothing and, seeing the door of the refectory had inadvertently been left unlocked, peeped in and saw a huge basket of grapes freshly gathered from the orchard.

Stealthily closing the door and approaching the grapes, he thus addressed them: "I publish the ban of marriage between Richard Hinesley Sheridan and these grapes. Is there any one to forbid the ban?" And, having no reply to his query, he proceeded to fill his breadbasket from the other basket with great gusto. But prohibition was to follow, for on the class being reassembled the master called upon Richard Hinesley Sheridan to stand forth and joined with his name the ominous name of Walker, who was the dupe of the school and selected from his weight and size to mount the culprit upon his shoulders in order that the master might get a firm surface upon which to use the birch with effect.

Sheridan being duly mounted and appropriately denuded of superfluous raiment, the master thus addressed him: "I publish the ban of marriage between Richard Hinesley Sheridan and this birch. Is there any just cause or impediment why these two parties should not be joined in holy matrimony?"

"Hold!" yelled Sheridan.

"Wait!" said the master.

"To which Sheridan said, 'Why, sir, the parties are not agreed!'"

This being not only witty, but apt, as being a valid objection in point of law, Sheridan was requested to retire and restore himself to his former habiliments amid the uncontrollable laughter of all concerned, including the head master. —Exchange.

FACTORY SITES

CHICAGO CORPORATION WANTS
VERY LARGE BONUS, HOW-

OFFICERS OF CONCERN HAVE

Promised to Give Janesville An Inspection Before Deciding Upon the Location of New Concern.

After daily turning down the committee of the Industrial and Commercial club on their proposition to furnish them a factory site and building the president and other officers of the club have reconsidered their proposition and have promised to come to Janesville to personally inspect the possible factory sites offered and look over conditions. Whether this means they will decide on Janesville remains to be seen but gentlemen who have talked with them, including Secretary DeArmand of the Industrial and Commercial club, M. G. Jeffries and C. S.
Jackman, are inclined to think there is a possibility.

M. G. Jeffries, in speaking of the matter today, said: "The day after the committee visited the officers of the company I had another conference with them, C. S. Jackman being with me. I am certain that the proposition can be handled in Janesville if satisfactory terms can be made with the officers of the company. It is a big proposition and the president and others have promised to come to Janesville to see what we have to offer."

Mr. DeArmand is even more optimistic and feels assured that the company can be induced to settle upon Janesville for their new factory. He spent yesterday with the officers of the company and says he received assurance that Janesville was first in the list of cities being considered.

SEEKS HUSBAND IN ANDEAN WILDERNESS

Mrs. Harriet C. Atherton of Port-mouth, N. H., Will Organize Expedition in Ecuador.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Boston, Mass., Oct. 22.—Mrs. Harriet C. Atherton, a resident of Portsmouth, N. H., has arranged to start tomorrow on a trip to almost unknown regions of South America, there to seek the body of her husband, Charles E. Atherton, who is supposed to have perished twelve years ago while hunting for a silver mine in the Andes.

After spending eight years in Ecuador,
where he prospered as a miner, Atherton returned to New York on a vacation. There he married, and with his wife returned to South America.
Two years later, fired by the marvelous tales of the boundless silver veins in the Andes ranges near the Brazilian boundary lines, Atherton sent his wife home for a vacation
while he went on a prospecting tour.
He has not been seen since.

Mrs. Atherton received a letter from Ecuador four months after his disappearance which informed her that it was believed her husband was dead.
She immediately left for Ecuador, and sent out expedition after expedition, but no trace of the man, living or dead, could be found. She still clings, however, to the belief that she will find at least the body of her husband.
When she next arrives in Ecuador she intends to employ a big band of natives to help her seek for him in the wild Andean country.

PAY BILLS AT MARLBOROUGH

How Accounts of British Royal Are Kept and Discharged—King
Inaugurates System.

London.—When King George came to reside at Marlborough house his majesty immediately gave his attention to systematizing the keeping of the numerous accounts of the royal establishment. A clerical department was formed, consisting of three clerks, under the control of the treasurer, Sir William Carrington; dockets for goods bought for the kitchens, storekeepers' and butlers' departments had to be made out by the head of each department, who was responsible for the orders which were sent up to the clerk's office.

A docket gave all particulars of the article bought and the name of the tradesman who supplied it and its cost. The particulars of all the daily dockets are entered up in a general day book, from which they are transferred to each tradesman's account in the royal ledgers; the ledgers, by the way, are bound in dark red leather, and a crown is stamped in gold on the back of each.

Each tradesman who has the royal custom must send in his bill at the end of the month, when it is compared with his ledger account, and, if it is found to be correct, is discharged during the first week of the month. No discount is asked for any of the royal accounts; a tradesman who receives the royal custom is informed that he must supply goods at the lowest reasonable prices and there is never any attempt at bargaining by the official of the royal household.

If a tradesman is thought to be making extortionate charges he simply loses the royal custom, so he rarely or never attempts to do so. There are of course several articles which are supplied to the royal household by contract, such as coal, for example. The contracts in most instances are made for three years and the contracts are as a rule paid in equal half yearly installments. A great deal of work is also done at Marlborough House under contract, such as window cleaning, carpet cleaning, chimney sweeping, and the glass frames of a number of large pictures are also cleaned by contract.

All the servants' wages are paid monthly, the upper servants, holding important and responsible positions, are paid by check; which is sent to each from the treasurer's department;
the other servants attend at the clerk's office to receive their wages.
The king's accounts for clothes, others, theatre tickets, newspapers, books and other personal articles are sent in to his secretary and are not dealt with at all in the clerical department.

These accounts are also discharged every month, but King George always likes to see them before they are paid; it was once a rule that they should be initiated by his majesty before being discharged, but this is not now done.

How I Won

By GROVER S. GRIFFIN

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

When I chose journalism for a profession I did so because I had literary tastes and a facility for writing. I soon found that the principal ingredient in the success of a newspaper man, especially while on the lower rungs of the ladder, is getting ahead of the other fellows. I soon tired of the routine work of collecting news and was thinking of giving up journalism when something happened; in other words, my opportunity arrived.

The president of the United States proposed to Russia and Japan, who were then at war, to settle their differences. A meeting was called between the representatives of the two nations to meet at Portsmouth. Our American newspapers are not used as they are in Europe to getting ahead of one another in news of matters pertaining to government and diplomacy or my opportunity would not have occurred at this time, for I was very young, had no acquaintance calculated to give me advance news and had not distinguished myself in my profession. The managing editor of an obscure paper sent me to Portsmouth simply to transmit the news as it came out, with comments on the crowds and descriptions of the distinguished participants.

But a wild dream came into my head. It occurred to me that if I alone among several hundred newspaper correspondents could get at the treaty of peace, if one were made, and telegraph it to my paper so that it could be published before any other paper published it I might make myself famous as a newspaper man. And here opportunity came in again to help me. On my journey to Portsmouth I traveled on the same train as one of the Russian representatives. He had with him a number of attendants, consisting of secretaries, stenographers and servants. I made the acquaintance of several of the suit, and it occurred to me that I might possibly make a deal with some one of them to give me the news for a consideration. I doubt if I should have attempted to get anything out of a Japanese in that fashion, but I knew that a Russian was much more amenable to the persuasion of funds.

I fell into conversation with one, whom I shall call Potodoff, a copyist. I gave him a cigar and several drinks from my flask. I explained to him my device and found a willing listener. I ended by offering him $50 if he could get me the treaty, should one be made, in time to send it to my paper for publication ahead of all other journals.

It may seem remarkable that I should have offered so small a sum for such a valuable prize. The truth is I offered him all the money that had been given for my expenses after paying for my tickets, and he had no knowledge of where he could sell his information elsewhere. Besides this, when the deal was made neither of us dreamed that there would be any success in our efforts. We had plenty of time on the train to concoct any scheme that might be necessary for the transmission of information from him to me. This was the most delicate part of our work, for after the convention once met and proceeded with its deliberations any possession of his secrets would be watched carefully.

The plan we adopted was this: I would take one man a day at the hotel where Potodoff's master put up. I would wait outside the dining room until I saw Potodoff go in, then go in myself and, going out before him, pick up his hat instead of my own, he later taking mine. At the next meal we would change hats back again.

Well, the convention met and began its deliberations. Potodoff and I did not have any need to change hats till the articles of the treaty were being brought up for discussion. Then as soon as an article was written out by my man, who was engaged in the work, would put a copy of it, written on thin paper, in his hat, and I would soon after be his possessor.

I was in a continuous state of anxiety lest the plenipotentiaries should fail to agree and I should have all my trouble for nothing. Besides, I fancied that if a treaty were made and I offered it at a telegraph office in Portsmouth in advance of its release, I would not be able to get it through. I therefore resolved, if I did get it, I would take a train for some small place distant from Portsmouth and telegraph it from there.

Finally the convention began discussing the articles one by one. Every time an article was agreed to the same evening I would find it written out within the lining of the hat I would put on, leaving the hotel dining room. I was getting anxious for the convention to end. I had not informed my paper that I was reserving all my money for a purpose and was in debt for everything I required.

At last the final articles were signed and a time appointed for giving the treaty to the newspaper representatives. The evening it was signed I got the last article from Potodoff, took a train for a near station, and the same night at 11 o'clock a telegraph operator was eliciting its text to my paper.

Now I got home, what I did when I got there, I will not dwell upon. My position as a newspaper man was established.

WOMAN CHEERS SHIP'S PASSENGERS BY SONG

Sings Popular Airs While Vessel Is Tossed By West Indian Floor Hurricane.

New York, Oct. 22.—In an endeavor to keep up the spirits of her 30 fellow passengers Mrs. Rone Cooper of Chicago sang popular airs until others joined her when the Morgan the steamship came into a terrible hurricane off the southern coast of Florida last week. As the ship continued to be tossed by the raging sea the voices of the passengers drifted into the singing of sacred hymns while some were so frightened that they engaged in prayer.

She sang popular airs until the others joined her, but later all hands drifted into hymns, as the weather got worse and the Comus was being tossed on a raging sea.

C. De F. Molyneux, secretary to R. W. Luce, general freight agent of the Southern Pacific Railroad company, who was on his way here from San Francisco on the Comus, told a story of the exciting experiences of the steamship in the terrible blow.

"Things began to look alarming Thursday," said Mr. Molyneux, "and Friday conditions became worse. By Friday night we were in the thick of the hurricane, which Captain Maxon said was the worst he had experienced in 17 years of sailing. Although the hatches were battened down and everything was locked tight, water forced its way into some of the staterooms. The decks were continually swept, the steamers pitched and rolled frightfully and everybody, even Captain Maxon, believed the ship would be lost."

"Conditions improved the next day, however, but both sea and wind continued high and there was not enough sun for an observation. An effort was made to find the vessel's location by soundings, but without success. Monday, things were improved enough to give us confidence and Tuesday the captain was able to get an observation and head for the Florida straits."

Key West, Fla., Oct. 22.—The United States cutter Forward returned here bringing the rest of the passengers from the French trans-Atlantic steamer Louisiana, which went ashore on Sombrero reef in the hurricane of Monday.

CABINET IS FOR ECONOMIZING.

Departmental Estimates Are Considered at First Regular Meeting.

Washington, Oct. 22.—The first of the regular winter sessions of the cabinet was held at the White House. The only absentees were Secretaries Dickson of the war department and Meyer of the navy department.

The consideration of departmental estimates for the ensuing fiscal year, to be submitted to congress in December, occupied most of the cabinet's time.

It will not be necessary for President Taft to go to Cincinnati to register in order to vote on November 8.

The president has registered by affidavit. His name has been put on the list of eligible voters and he will leave Washington the afternoon of November 7 to cast his ballot at Cincinnati the following morning.

Fall of Rain Twenty-Five Inches.

Palm Beach, Fla., Oct. 22.—Communication with the outside world has been established after three days of isolation. It is estimated that 25 inches of rain fell in the four days of the storm.

Agree on Great Tobacco Sale.

Cincinnati, Oct. 22.—Forty million pounds of tobacco, held by the Burley Tobacco society as part of the dissolved 1909 pool, will be sold on the open market in Cincinnati according to contracts signed here.

Posse Hunts Robbers.

Tucson, Ariz., Oct. 22.—A posse is hunting two bandits who held up three passengers who had alighted from a train at Diamond, 16 miles east, and robbed them of $200.

Her Poor Memory.

A woman who belonged to an ancient but penniless family married a rich plebeian, but she never forgot the misalliance nor allowed any one else to do so. One day, attended by a servant, she went into a store and gave an order.

"And where shall I send it, madam?" said the shopkeeper.

"Jean," said the woman, turning to her servant, "tell the man your master's name. I never can remember it."

THE LAND OF OPHIR.

Where Was It—In Mashonaland, South Arabia or India?

One of the most interesting and important questions concerning Biblical tales perpetually invites research and persistently evades solution. "Where is the land of Ophir?" Dr. Karl Peters at a public meeting in Berlin declared emphatically that this famous Biblical land is located between the Zambezi and Limpopo rivers. He told his German audience how he has discovered many shafts of ancient gold mines, 500 temples, fortifications and other ruins of Phoenician origin. Dr. Peters affirms that coins unearthed in Mashonaland belong undoubtedly to the time of King Solomon. His opinion is that no other part of Africa could have exported the ivory, silver and precious stones which are recorded in the Bible as coming from Ophir.

Against this theory, founded as it undoubtedly is on very plausible evidence, Bible students are still likely to maintain, on the testimony of Genesis x, 20, that Ophir was a section of South Arabia. Here down to the time of Ezekiel the Phoenicians still landed to procure gold and gems with which these famous sailors and merchants of the ancient world traded in many countries distant from their Syrian shores.

Many erudite writers have attempted to identify Sofala, on the east coast of Africa, with Ophir, while yet others have located it in India. One of the most learned essays written on the subject is from the pen of Professor Hommel, who argued that the ancient land of gold was Arabia Felix.—Hornell Review.

A Man to Be Envious.

"Do you know," remarked a visitor to a Broadway hostelry, "I'm always inclined to envy the clerk in a hotel like this. He is always well groomed and smiling, has a wider acquaintance among the wealthy or well to do than I can ever hope to have and is always so aggressively at peace with the world and himself; also he wears more of a ring than not, a diamond scarf pin or tie, which is certainly beyond me. It's a pretty comfortable berth."

Several hours later the hotel clerk reached for his coat and hat. As he left the office he turned to a comrade: "Say, Ned, can you let me have $10 till the first? Rent due at home tomorrow, and I'm shy. Doctor's bills hit me pretty hard this month, and I don't want to be awake tonight if I can help it."—New York Globe.

ACKNOWLEDGE IT.

Janesville Has to Bow to the Inevitable—Scores of Citizens Prove It.

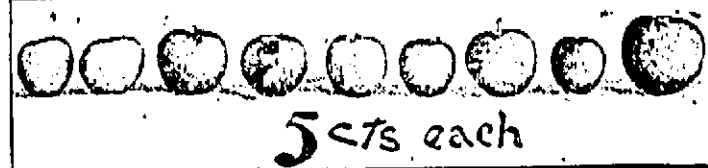

After reading the public statement of this representative citizen of Janesville given below, you must come to this conclusion: A remedy which cured years ago, which has kept the kidneys in good health since, can be relied upon to perform the same work in other cases. Read this:

Mrs. William Mohr, 310 N. Academy St., Janesville, Wis., says: "About two years ago I had an attack of kidney trouble and at that time I got a supply of Doan's Kidney Pills at the People's Drug Co. The use of only two boxes cured me. Other members of my family have taken Doan's Kidney Pills with satisfactory results and I therefore know this remedy to be a reliable one." (Statement given in August, 1908.)

The Benefit Lasted. Mrs. Mohr was interviewed on September 23, 1910, and she said: "I gladly confirm my former endorsement of Doan's Kidney Pills. They permanently rid me of kidney complaint and during the past two years I have had no further need of a kidney medicine."

Which Would You Choose?

If you saw a row of apples, every one differing in size, ripeness, and color, and all for sale at the same price, wouldn't you choose the best? Why not do the same thing when you buy fire insurance? The cost of insurance is substantially the same in all companies, but what you get for your money varies as much as the apples in this row.

Choose the Hartford Fire Insurance Company. For 100 years it has paid every honest loss, big and little. Its reputation is unexcelled. It is the best fire insurance apple of them all, and its policies cost no more than those of inferior quality. Why not use the same good judgment in buying insurance that you do in buying goods for your store, clothes for your family, or even in such a trivial matter as buying apples from the fruit-stand? And the next time you insure,

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

MARY SONTAG, HEROINE.

Mary Sontag of Chicago does not know who is a heroine.

She does not even know what the word heroine means.

But she is a heroine just the same. Mary is about nine years old. Her mother died a year ago, and besides Mary, there are six children—Mike, aged eight; Rosie, seven; George, six; Susie, five; David, three; Plunkie, two.

Mary mothers them all. She gets up at daybreak to cook her father's breakfast so that he may go to his work. Then she helps to dress Mike and Rosie and George and get them off to school. After that she feeds and washes Susie and David and Plunkie.

That is not all. Besides being mother, Mary is financial and general manager of the Sontag household.

She pays the rent. She buys the children's clothes and washes and mends their garments. She gets all her father's wages except what is reserved for his pipe and his car fare.

Mary makes every cent count. The neighbors say the Sontag kiddies are always tidy and clean and that you could cut off the floor of Mary's kitchen.

Mary cannot read or write.

You see, she has been too busy being a heroine. She had to learn other things than books. The mother was delicate, and Mary had to help with the big brood. And as superintendent and financial director of the Sontag interests she has been exceedingly busy.

Can you deny that this little slip of an Irish lass, with her busy hands and her motherly heart, is less than a heroine?

The fact is we need either a new definition or a new interpretation of the word heroine.

A hero or heroine in our ordinary definition is one who does the unusual or the startling deed, whereas you will more often find the real heroism in doing with smiling face the usual or ordinary thing, and doing it over and over.

The heroine that labors quietly, sacrifices willingly, suffers gladly and persists in such labors and sacrifices to the end—that is genuine heroism.

Let the frozen flunkeys rage. Let the near great strut in their pride. Let the complacent preach their nasty pessimism. It matters not, because—

The glory and blessing of the race are its everyday Mary Sontags.

Save 2c to 7c a lb. On Coffee and Get Equal Value

You can do this in the same way that hundreds of other Janesville women are doing it. Coffee is not altogether a matter of price. It's more a matter of suiting your taste than anything else.

WOMEN WHO HAVE BEEN PAYING 35c and 30c a lb. AND ARE NOW USING GOLDEN BLEND at 28c a lb., are even better satisfied than before. Scientific Coffee blending of today makes it possible to produce a flavor in coffee that is rich, piquant, delightful, and at a price that is within the means of most people. Because 35c used to be the price paid for high grade coffees years ago is no reason for paying it now.

If you have been using a coffee that costs a few cents less, try a pound of Golden Blend and see what a great difference in coffee a few cents in price will make.

More Golden Blend is used in Janesville than any other coffee. More value in coffee is given in Golden Blend than in any other brand. Most people use it because they like it best, regardless of price.

Today order just a trial pound of Golden Blend.

We handle other grades of coffee, some higher and some lower in price, but each is carefully selected and cup tested, and blended and roasted to produce the very best coffee at the price. Our fancy Sontag at 20c a lb. and Imperial Blend at 25c a lb. are among our big sellers and our Royal Coffee at 35c is a blend of the finest selected beans. Those wishing to secure the very highest grade of coffee it is possible to buy will not be disappointed in Royal Coffee.

WE SAVE MONEY FOR Everybody Every Day

We save it because we buy our merchandise for cash and thereby secure not only the best the market affords, but the lowest price, plus all discounts. We actually buy cheaper than credit store do and then too we can afford to sell for smaller profits than credit stores dare, because they must mark their goods with profits large enough to pay for extra book-keeping, for losses which they sustain on bad accounts, for cost of collecting the accounts, and for interest on money which is outstanding on accounts instead of being on hand with which to pay cash.

Through every department of our store these savings are noticeable. Sometimes it's in reduction in prices, sometimes it is in extra values at regular prices, but anyone who is a judge of values will readily see that we offer advantages in every line.

22 Four Cylinder Models From 20 to 40 H.P. $775 to $1,675; With Lamps and Magneto

This new season starts with almost 20,000 Overlands in use—with 20,000 owners telling others about these remarkable cars.

During the first seven months of this year there has been delivered to users 12,320 cars.

At this writing—with the new models scarcely a month old—the Overland company has orders from dealers for thousands and thousands of the 1911 models. On each of these cars the dealer has paid a deposit.

The new Overland season is started with five model plants—with a daily capacity of 140 cars.

A start is made with such equipment as was never before employed in the automobile industry. This start means that the Overland company now has the ability to make good cars for less money than any other plant in the world.

Their reputation is as wide as America—a record which no rival ever approached—with a car which, by sheer force of merit, in little more than two years, has attained the dominant place in its field.

Yet this Overland line—so seemingly perfect—begins the new season of 1911 with a dozen great innovations.

Another Reduction In Cost

The tendency this year is toward higher prices in low-profit automobiles. The higher cost of materials, the advances in rubber, the labor increases, compel it.

But, despite these advances the Overland has made another cut in cost. And this is how it was done.

The Willys-Overland Company, though an astounding success, has never paid a dividend. All it has earned—and a great deal more—has gone into model plants and machinery. Over $3,000,000 has now been invested to produce Overland cars in the most exact, most economical way.

Last year the costs were cut 20 per cent by a new equipment to perform each operation by the best machines men could invent. This year, in the same way, the cost has been cut 8 per cent further. And of all this saving—28 per cent in two years—an average of over $300 per car—goes to Overland buyers.

Prices For 1911

This year we shall sell a continued model—Model 38 with a tonneau—for $1,000. The same model last year cost $1,100.

Four other models have each been reduced $100.

This year we have a selective type transmission in our 25-horsepower car, and charge only $1,075 for it.

This year we have a 4-cylinder, 20-horsepower car, with 96-inch wheelbase, for $775. We have a Torpedo Roadster—20 horsepower, for $860. Such prices have never before been quoted on cars of this class.

This year we have a 30-horsepower car—either as a Torpedo Roadster or Fore-Door Tonneau—for $1,250.

We are selling an inside drive coupe for $1,260.

For $1,600 and $1,675 we have four separate models of 35-horsepower cars, with 118-inch wheelbases. They are cars as attractive as any price can buy—as powerful as any man needs.

All of these prices—as last year—include gas lamps and magneto.

The Overland gives the most for the money now by a greater margin than ever.

But the Overland prices are now at their limit. New machinery cannot cut the cost further. Larger production can make no further saving. Unless materials come down and labor comes down, Overland prices will never go lower. We have now reached, in all probability, the minimum cost in marketing good motor cars.

All Overlands For 1911 Include the New Fore Doors, At Your Option, At One Price

No Extra Charge

We have open front bodies for those who desire them, as tastes in such matters cannot be changed in a year. But those who know best know that fore-door bodies are to be the coming vogue. The open front must go the way of the rear door tonneau.

Ninety-seven per cent of all foreign cars are now shown with foredoors. And Europe has always set the vogue in carriage and motor bodies.

The highest priced makes of American cars are now shown with foredoors. The style leaders will this year put out nothing else.

On some modest priced lines the open fronts are continued. But the main reason is an overstock of parts which compels the continuance of 1910 models. Another is the extra cost.

No car but the Overland, in the low-profit class, is yet offering foredoors at the price of the open front.

The Overland this year announces foredoors without any extra charge. This because it is the style of the future. It is without doubt the coming vogue. Sooner or later, every maker of motor cars must offer foredoors at their standard price.

The Overland starts doing that this year. We give buyers their choice—foredoors or open front—at an equal price. Up to this time not another car in the low-profit class has followed this innovation.

22 Attractive Designs

For this season we have 22 models of Overlands. They run from $775 to $1,675—from 20 to 40 horsepower.

This gives us a range to meet every requirement—every idea on price and style and power. Every motor car buyer, whatever his wants, can meet them in the Overland at a lower cost than anywhere else in the world.

We have the planetary transmission for the many who like the utter simplicity of the pedal control. But we have sliding gears, too, for those who prefer them.

On every model we use double ignition—magneto and battery.

On some we supply the Remy Magneto, on some the Bosch. On some Overland models the two ignition systems are entirely independent, requiring eight spark plugs.

Mechanically the cars have been altered but little. The Overland from the start has been about as good a car as men can ever produce. That is why it so quickly won the leading place in modernity.

The greatest improvements are in style and design. They are the creations of some of the greatest designers whom this industry has developed.

No line this year, sold at any price, offers more attractive designs than the Overland. It is utterly impossible, whatever one pays, to buy a more classy car.

Home Course In Health Culture

II.—Pure Water In the Home

By EUGENE L. FISK, M. D.
Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

IN a certain ponderous volume about the size of Webster's Unabridged appear the names and descriptions of the drugs used in medical practice. This book is called the United States Pharmacopoeia. A movement is now under way among progressive medical men and pharmacists to reduce the size of the volume by discarding all but the most potent and useful drugs in each class of remedies.

It is safe to say that if fresh air and pure water could be secured in every home—in other words, if Dame Nature's pharmacopoeia were thoroughly utilized throughout the land—the present formidable United States Pharmacopoeia and the equally cumbersome British Pharmacopoeia would find a place on the top shelf and be succeeded by small, modest volumes that one could carry in the vest-pocket.

THE OLD OAKEN BUCKET.

(This familiar scene on the farm is poetic, but germs are no respecters of poetry or persons.)

Value of Drugs.

This is not to say that drugs are useless. No one who has practiced medicine and seen the "grim reaper" follow and driven off by the skillful use of potent drugs can truthfully deny their enormous value to humanity when wisely employed. But the keynote of modern medicine is "prevention rather than cure."

It is a splendid thing to drag a man back from the jaws of death by relaxing the strained arteries with nitroglycerin or steadying the weakened and falling heart with atropine or digitalis, but it is a far bigger and better thing to advise and guide your patient in his daily life that he should retain a sound heart and elastic arteries until a ripe old age and never need your "heroic remedies."

Conceding that water is one of the great necessities of life and a powerful agent for good or ill, a few moments' attention to its constitution and qualities are worth while.

Water is a compound of two atoms of hydrogen with one atom of oxygen. Indicated by the formula H<sub>2</sub>O. This is not a mere mixture of gases, as in the case of air, but a definite chemical compound.

Distilled water is, of course, chemically pure, but it is rather flat and unpalatable. It has been claimed that distilled water is not a healthy beverage owing to its great solvent properties, but its use among large bodies of men in the navy without ill effect would indicate that this belief is groundless. Possibly the drinking of very large quantities of distilled water might impoverish the system, but as between distilled water and impure water contaminated by disease germs there should be no hesitancy in choosing the former.

The principal diseases that are transmitted by water are typhoid fever, cholera, diarrhea and dysentery. All these diseases are absolutely unnecessary and preventable. If a fraction of the time, money and thought that is expended in windy politics and so-called statesmanship were exerted in behalf of pure air and pure water, many of our social and political ills would disappear simultaneously with the stamping out of preventable diseases.

How to Get Pure Water.

Our golden maxim we can always keep in mind for our protection against water-borne diseases: "When in doubt, boil."

Boiled water is flat and unpalatable, but it is better than a sparkling germ-laden conveyer of disease. But an effort should always be made to secure a source of pure water supply and keep it pure.

The appearance of typhoid fever should call for rigid investigation.

It is not enough for water to be pure at its source; a rigid police system should be maintained to prevent contamination from sewage within a wide range of territory adjacent to water.

On Manliness.

Whoever is not found valiant in his anger cannot exult in his glory.—Aesop (1109-1106).

well, river or lake from which the water is obtained. A proper filtration plant is also advisable, and here expert advice and engineering skill will prove cheap in the long run.

On farms and places disconnected from a general water supply the matter is under the immediate control of the household.

If one cannot afford an artesian well, at least a deep well should be sunk and rigid precaution taken against contamination from household sewage. The most horrible and uncivilized condition that can possibly exist is a shallow surface well or spring adjacent to a shallow surface sewage vault.

No community should permit such a combination to exist, and the individual who exposes his family to such risks assumes a terrible responsibility. The distance which a sewage vault may be located from a well without risk is theoretically sixty feet. As a matter of fact, the combination is always dangerous, no matter what the distance maintained, as the surface water may carry the bacteria of disease to a considerable distance. The best plan is to have a deep well thoroughly protected within a radius of several feet by a cement platform, so that surface water from the dooryard cannot pollute it. The earth closet should be used instead of the porous sewage vault, or if the latter is permitted it should be as distant from the well as possible on a lower level and drain away from it. The liberal use of dry earth and chloride of lime may prevent sickness and suffering, not to speak of heavy financial loss.

The Ideal System.

A far better plan is to install a "surface irrigation" system. These systems devised by the late Colonel Waring of New York provide for a disposal of the house waste and sewage through a house drain to a tank or reservoir, which automatically empties its accumulated contents by siphonage into a series of pipes, which distribute the material directly on the surface of the soil in some field sloping away from the house. An area of one-tenth of an acre will receive and care for the waste of a household of twelve persons. This waste when delivered to the field is an inoffensive milky mixture, which the bacterial and chemical agencies in the surface soil soon dispose of if a proper interval is allowed. The cesspool, like all devices that accumulate sewage and allow it to decompose, may be a focus of disease distribution. It is far inferior to the above described system.

All wells should be screened, preventing contamination by flies, mosquitoes, etc.

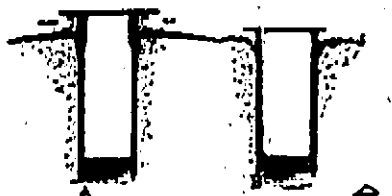

If good well water cannot be obtained the rainwater may be filtered and collected in a cistern. Cistern water is not very palatable, but it can be kept pure and tends to purify itself on standing.

Rainwater is soft and, like all soft waters, readily dissolves lead. It should not be stored in metal receptacles, therefore, or run through leaden pipes.

What to Do With Pure Water.

Pure water having been obtained, the question arises, How shall we use it? Inasmuch as about 70 per cent of the body weight is made up of water, no argument is necessary to show that a certain daily supply is necessary if the body weight is to be maintained. About one-half of the solid food we eat is composed of water, but it is estimated that, in addition, the average man requires about two and one-half pints, or three tumblerfuls, daily.

A great deal of nonsense is written regarding the amount of water that should be taken daily, the amount suggested running up into the gallons. No doubt some people do not drink enough water, especially between meals, but the taking of vast quantities of water may work serious injury by overtaxing the heart and circulation and causing an overaction of the kidneys. Dilatation of the stomach may also result from overindulgence with fluid. It is believed that some of the evils of beer drinking are due to the excessive amount of fluid imbibed as well as to the alcohol.

TWO EXAMPLES OF WELLS.

(A shows a well arranged so that surface water and germs are kept out by the cement extension outside the walls; B shows a well unprotected, allowing surface water to run in and carry germs from the soil.)

There is no question, however, that water is a good eliminant and that taken between meals, in moderate quantities it tends to purify the system. A very active eliminant can be maintained by drinking frequently small quantities of water and thus avoiding the dangers of flooding the system. This is especially important in cases of kidney trouble and heart trouble, accompanied by dropsy, as it is advisable to keep up the action of the kidneys and also carry off waste products from the bowels without overtaxing the heart.

Water at Meals.

Ice water at meals is injurious, as it tends to check the digestive function; also the ice is liable to be contaminated and infect pure drinking water. A certain amount of water at meals is desirable, but it should be cool and not ice cold. Hot water has many advocates, but it must be used with caution. It is of most service where there is a gouty tendency. A glassful taken in the morning and before retiring is sufficient.

Live Heavily on Corn and Beans.

Corn and beans are the staple articles of diet of the working classes of Mexico.

NO PROFIT IN ERROR

CERTAIN MENTAL INJURY SURE, EVEN WHERE IT LEADS TO SUCCESS.

NO REASON FOR BOASTING

But Once in Many Times Do Mistakes Lead to Any Kind of Success—Always Essential Difference Between Right and Wrong.

The error by which we profit is one of the strange freaks of events. It is easy to accept the benefit, but it is not so easy to avoid the mental injury. We are elated when we should still be provoked. Even profit must needs steal upon us unawares and break through our incompetence. We succeeded not by our intelligence, but by our ignorance, writes the Rev. Emory J. Haynes in the Chicago Journal.

Any dunce could have been caught that way by a good providence. Even the success should make us inwardly ashamed. And it is the last thing to boast of. Yet we are compelled to wear the honors in public. We hesitate whether to confess to our employer, whether to whisper the facts to our best friend and act the false before other people, or to go about explaining.

Beneficial errors are sinister in the encouragement of loose methods. The spoiled child of nature grows in presumption. There is just one sure way to deal with mistakes, and that is to reprobate them. If we stumbled upon a good thing, still the mind that did not stumble and yet missed the good thing, while walking with a manly tread, is far better situated. For profitable errors are vastly in the minority.

The strong and steady footstep will go further. There is measureless danger in thinking it might happen that way again. Two errors, plus and minus, balance just once in a million times. Put it in that ratio and you are safe. It is right to accept the fruits of investigation, which we call discovery, with humble gratitude and self-encouragement. In this sense about all our great inventions have been more or less stumbled upon. No one knows this better than the great inventors and discoverers themselves, and they have almost uniformly acknowledged it. They were in the way of duty, in the line of search, and the reward came as a revelation.

Mistakes in conduct, moral errors, evil doing that result in unexpected benefit, are almost fatal to character. Not one in 10,000 ever attributes them to the mercy of nature or the long-suffering pity of an overruling power. The debauched mind jumps at the conclusion that there is no essential difference between right and wrong.

Settle it as the law that errors are followed by the disastrous labor of setting them right. They are sand in the machinery. They are moles in the eye. They are the perpetual reminders of our fallibility. Against errors we educate, train, discipline. It is a constant fight. There is a perversity about mistakes that is exasperating and renders them almost self-propagating. Ask the clerk who spends midnight hours on a trivial balance where two and two were made five repeatedly.

Never rely on the happiest error. It will turn on you sooner or later and in a situation of great discomfort. If the error came out well, then label it honestly and even yet be afraid of it.

It is when we ponder it that no human action is perfectly accurate—and yet the world grows better and man's estate improves—that we see the majesty of a khal ruler. There is a power which corrects, a force whose other name is mercy.

Smirking for Business.

In the course of a newspaper investigation of the woe of London shopmen, it was found that one concern issued printed instructions to its employees, among them being the following:

"Our employees are reminded that whilst serving customers they are expected to wear a commercial smile."

The thing not being defined, one can fancy the variety of facial contortions in which the luckless employee might be seen to indulge. But the merit of the idea is obvious. We are safe in saying that the "commercial smile" is intended to be a happy blend of supreme confidence in the quality of the goods offered with a benevolent desire not to allow the customer to miss the greatest opportunity of his life. It implies mingled pleasure and an aim to please others. But we do not see why an enticing "commercial smile" should be confined to haberdashers and outfitters.—New York Post.

Child-Labor Situation.

The recent meeting of the commission on uniform laws had some cheerful news to give on the reform in the child-labor situation.

In six years 13 states and the District of Columbia have established departments of inspection for the enforcement of child-labor laws, and ten states and the District of Columbia have established an eight-hour day for children under sixteen. In 1904 the fourteen-year age limit was in effect in only 12 states, now it is in force in 37.

Great Law of Nature.

Olsson—"All that is human must retrograde if it do not advance."

Mrs. Nippy Grumbles.
"This is a provoking world," said Mrs. Nippy. "I go down to the stores to buy things that I want, and I can't get a blessed clerk to wait on me in hot weather, at least. But forty or fifty peddlers a day call me to the door at home and offer to sell me things I don't need at all."

Useful Reflection.

The optimist was reading some of the numerous articles in his creed. Finally he came to the end. "Oh, there is one more, after all," he said. "On the days when I reflect how little I really amount to, I cheer myself by remembering how much I expect of others."—Youth's Companion.

Hawaiian Mahogany Used for Ties.
E. O. Faulkner, head of the forestry department of the Santa Fe, has returned from Honolulu, where he went to sign up a contract for the entire output of this ties of the Hawaiian Islands.

Ohia is the heaviest wood known and is also one of the hardest. It is a species of mahogany, very knotty and unsplittable. Experiments have demonstrated that it is affected but little by the continuous pounding of heavy rolling stock and for that reason it is being used in curves where strength and durability is of the greatest importance and cost a matter of secondary consideration.

Screw Spike for Railroad Ties.
One of the most important innovations in the construction of track in the United States is the substitution of the screw spike for the old and altogether inefficient straight railroad spike. Many miles of experimental track have been laid, and it is to be hoped that they have been so put down and will be so maintained that reliable results will be forthcoming.

John Baird Died Suddenly Last Evening—Other News of Interest.
(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Monroe, Wis., Oct. 22.—John Baird died here very suddenly at his home on West Russell street, from weakness and exhaustion following a two weeks' illness. Shortly before his death he complained of his heart. A week ago today he was up town but appeared very feeble. He has been employed as janitor at the White block and was a genial, kindly man. He was also a strong supporter of the progressive republican cause. His death is the first to occur in a family of ten children, in behalf of which a reunion was held last year of all the children of William Baird, one of the early settlers of Green county.
He resided in Janesville, but was a member of the Trinity church of the city. He was afterwards working with the J. I. Case company. Twenty years ago he came to Monroe. His wife, two sons and two daughters survive.
The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon from the home at two o'clock and will be in charge of O. F. Phiney, pastor.
The remains of Thomas Bedford, a former resident of this city, were brought here last evening from Dixon and were taken to the Kelly cemetery.

YOUR SOUR, GASSY, UPSET STOMACH WILL FEEL FINE IN FIVE MINUTES

Indigestion and all other Stomach distress goes after taking a little Diapensin.
You can eat anything your stomach craves without fear of indigestion or dyspepsia, or that your food will ferment or sour in your stomach, if you will take a little Diapensin occasionally.
Your meals will taste good, and anything you eat will be digested; nothing can ferment or turn into acid or poison or stomach gas, which causes belching, flatulency, a feeling of fullness after eating, nausea, indigestion (like a lump of lead in stomach), flatulence, heartburn, water brash, pain in stomach and intestines or other symptoms.
Headaches from the stomach are absolutely unknown where this effective remedy is used. Diapensin really does this morning for treatment. The services at the grave were conducted by the Monroe Masonic lodge, of which order he was a member.

Red River Valley Lands
In Southern Polk County, Minnesota.
Soil, rich black loam with clay subsoil.
Good improved farms near good markets, at $35 to $40 PER ACRE
Less than 300 miles from Duluth and Twin Cities.
I have list of fine farms direct from the owners, all located from two to six miles from good town. These farms were selected by the owners several years ago for quality of soil, location, state of cultivation and improvements. They have all the advantages of Rock County, Wisconsin—Schools, Churches, Good Markets, Creamery, Telephone, Rural Free Delivery, Graded Roads, etc., are supplied with flowing wells furnishing the purest water, and are ideal homes. These lands produce small grains, corn, timothy, clover, vegetables and small fruits in great abundance, which makes them especially fitted for both grain and stock raising and dairying. These fine improved farms can be bought for less money than unimproved farms in some localities farther west where railroad facilities are inadequate and where the rainfall is not so plentiful.
The western fever has carried people past the fertile lands of Minnesota, but the high prices being asked for western lands are causing people to think, and they are beginning to realize the advantages of good improved farms near railroads and central markets over unimproved prairie lands 20 to 30 miles from railroad and far removed from the centers of population.

Shortly before midnight on September 2, the huge steel car ferry, "Pere Marquette No. 18," left her slip at Ludington, Mich., with a cargo of 29 loaded freight cars, bound for Milwaukee. She was equipped with every safety device and declared to be as sound and seaworthy as any craft on the Great Lakes, and yet she foundered in the middle of Lake Michigan a few minutes after seven o'clock the following morning. The ship was 338 feet long, had a beam of 56 feet, and a draft of 20 feet. The car deck, provided with four tracks, with a capacity of 30 cars, ran the entire length of the ship, and was open at the stern. While there has been some adverse criticism of this open stern, used by a score of car ferries on the Great Lakes, it has not heretofore been regarded as dangerous. The illustration shows the car ferry just as she sank.

Another Poor Victim Made Happy After Being Duped Into An Operation For Appendicitis With the Assurance of Getting Well

trap I was. Don't submit to an operation until you have called on the Chiropractors, for they will locate the cause of your trouble in your spine and by removing the cause your disease or trouble will leave you and they will also tell you whether or not they can do anything for you before they will take your case. I can not find words to express my feeling for the good the Chiropractors have done already for me.

This letter is signed and witnessed but we desire to withhold the name from public print. Anyone wishing to know the name can find out upon application at our office.

Why do you let the doctors and surgeons make you believe that by cutting out your organs that you will get well? If you took your watch that has always given you good service to a jeweler and he would tell you that the reason that your watch failed to keep good time was because it had too many wheels in it, you would think that he was either a knave or a fool if you did not tell him so to his face. And yet, when the doctors or the surgeons will tell you that the reason you are sick is that you have got too many organs, you will swallow that and submit yourself to an operation. We claim that it is an insult to the Creator to cut out the organs of man that He has put there for He knew that man could not live without them or He would not have put them in. When did the doctors and surgeons get more wisdom than their Creator?

Now this man who came to us, we can not blame him so much for he did not know of Chiropractic, but you do and if you submit to any kind of an operation you will have no one to blame but yourself. READ WHAT HE HAS TO SAY FOR THE SCIENCE OF CHIROPRACTIC.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN: "I am 49 years of age. I suffered 4 years ago with appendicitis and the doctor said that if I would have my appendix removed I would get well. He removed the appendix all right or at least he claims he did, but I learned to my sorrow that I got worse than better, for it left me in such a nervous condition that I would drop down wherever I chanced to be at times and I could not sleep at all or stand still. After suffering for 4 years and trying several other doctors without getting any help, I was prevailed upon by friends to go and try Puddicombe & Puddicombe, the Chiropractors, and now I'm glad I did for after the first adjustment I could sleep all night which I have not done for over 4 years and I have not had a fall for a week and the nervousness is almost gone and I can't help but think that they are going to bring me out all right. I am giving this testimonial not for personal gain for the Chiropractors but to warn others who may be led into the same heart nerves which restored it to normal, and the man was made well immediately. This man went back into active business.

Men Admire Common Sense

If you stop to think it over, you'll discover that when your husband married you he thought you had a good deal of common sense, and that you would help him make an attractive, pleasant home. He expected you voluntarily to be economical.

In his business, if he had an employee who was wasteful or foolish, he would get rid of him. In his home he is dependent on your evidencing the qualities he rightly expected.

We often detect a note of pride in a man's voice when he comes in to pay for a Hoosier Kitchen Cabinet his wife has selected of her own accord. It pleases him to realize that she has seen the economy of a step and time saving device without being told.

Hoosier Kitchen Cabinets are of that high quality which characterizes everything from this store, which enables us to say that "If it comes from Ashcraft's it must be good."

The cost is small.

Read This About Appendicitis

Note the illustration. It shows the second and third lumbar vertebrae slightly subluxated, which causes a pressure on the nerve leading to the appendix. The lack of nerve out of the body causing appendicitis and by adjusting these vertebrae the condition was made normal, thus removing the cause of the trouble.

Hundreds of cases of appendicitis, many of them so bad that operation was demanded, have all been made well by the Chiropractor Adjustments by removing these conditions of spine without any operation. We have never seen a case requiring operation, as the healing will take place by removing the trouble at spine.

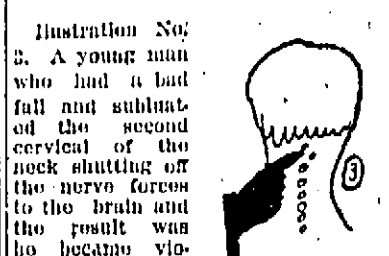

Illustration No. 2 shows the first cervical vertebra of the neck out of place. This will cause Neuralgia in the head. A woman who had suffered for many years in this condition. She came to us and we found that the subluxation was pinching the nerve and cutting off the nerve force. Several adjustments got it back in place and the lady was never troubled since with Neuralgia. A great many of these cases come to us. The subluxation is not always in the same place and the neuralgia is in the different parts of the body.

If they are disturbed as in the case of Harry Thaw, when he was disturbed by White, actions which paralyzed the peripheral end of the nerves filament passing down his neck irritating the muscles of the neck causing a muscular contraction of the neck putting a greater pressure on the main nerve to the brain, causing him to lose control of his mind and leaving him with nothing but murder on his brain. But after his arrest and having in his cell a few days and being satisfied of the fact that he had gotten his revenge then his mind became cooled off, the irritation of the nerves ceased and the muscles of the neck relaxed and then he became rational again. But he will never be normal until he has this vertebra adjusted. And if this vertebra had been normal nothing would have caused him to murder White.

Illustration No. 4. A young man was deaf and suffered with catarrh for many years. We adjusted the third vertebra of his neck, freed the nerves to ears and head, and he is now free from catarrh and deafness.

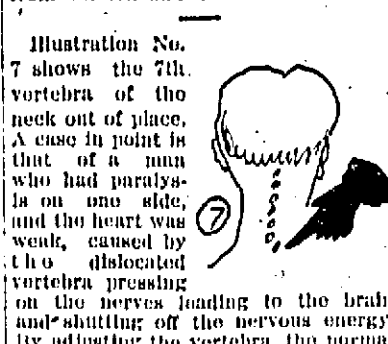

Illustration No. 7 shows the 7th vertebra of the neck out of place. A case in point is that of a man who had paralysis on one side, and the heart was weak, caused by the subluxated vertebra pressing on the nerves leading to the brain and shutting off the nervous energy. By adjusting the vertebra, the normal condition was restored and the man was made well. We have a great many of these cases, and 98 per cent were made well.

CONSUMPTION AND BRONCHIAL TROUBLE.

Illustration No. 3. Consumption in a young man. The cause was a subluxation in a young lady. The second and third dorsal vertebrae were found in a lateral subluxated condition, throwing a pressure on the nerves that run to the lungs, causing congestion of the lungs which threw the patient into consumption. By replacing the vertebrae and removing the pressure from these nerves it gives nature a chance to restore perfect health.

We have had a large per cent of these cases, and all were either made well or much benefited. Consumption is not contagious, as very many people associate with these consumptives, and yet are no more liable to contract this disease than men engaged in other callings.

Bronchitis is started with a cold or catarrhal condition of the head, the discharge therefrom running down the bronchial tubes which irritates the nerves and causing contraction of the muscles which produces a subluxation of the first and second dorsal vertebra. The result is Bronchitis. By replacing these dorsal vertebrae we restore the natural condition and the disease disappears immediately.

There is not a disease known but what a greater per cent of them can be overcome, by Chiropractic Adjustment than by any other method.

FEMALE TROUBLES AND CONSTIPATION.

Illustration No. 16. One nationally prominent lady who has witnessed many cases of misplacement and other female troubles during successful adjustments at the Chiropractic college, said: "If you have discovered nothing more than this way of curing these diseases without surgical operations, you have done more to bless suffering women than anyone who has ever lived."

We usually find a subluxation at the fourth and fifth lumbar vertebra, causing prolapse and misplacement. These are all corrected even when adhesions have formed. Tumors are easily reduced and growth stopped. This kind constitutes the largest percentage of our cases.

DISEASES OF STOMACH.

Illustration No. 11. A nationally known man suffered with dyspepsia and indigestion for many years. Adjusted the vertebra of the spine at 6th, 6th and 7th dorsal vertebrae, restoring the nervous energy to the stomach, and he can now eat any kind of food without trouble. Hundreds of cases are of this nature. All are made entirely well and at a smaller cost than you would pay to a doctor, without getting permanent relief.

Illustration No. 14. A middle-aged man had a severe case of Bright's disease. His limbs were swollen and sore. He had been given up as incurable and fully expected to die. However, he called in a chiropractor. Spine was adjusted at 11th and 12th dorsal vertebrae and 4th and 5th lumbar and freeing the nerves to kidneys and the case was soon dismissed, another success for the great new science of Chiropractic.

DISEASES OF HEART.

Illustration No. 12. Prominent business man found he had a weak heart, and that the beats were not regular. He sold out his business expecting to retire. He finally called on us and we found 2nd and 4th dorsal vertebrae subluxated. By replacing the vertebrae we removed the pressure from heart nerves which restored it to normal, and the man was made well immediately. This man went back into active business.

We have a great many cases of weak heart, and usually we are compelled to remove some other lesion where there is a congestion, to lighten the work of the heart.
